DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Smith (US 2998559) in view of Hart (US 3638491).

Art Unit: 2855

Regarding claim 1 Smith teaches concentric inner and outer tubes 10 18 (col. 1 lines 43-46) made of insulating material (col. 2 line 19 and line 28), a set of electrodes 12 16, each set having at least one pair of two electrodes in the form of strips (col. 1 lines 54-58) extending along the gauge and placed facing each other on facing walls of the inner and outer tubes (figs. 2 and 3). Smith teaches at least one capacitor 56, but does not teach two capacitors. Hart teaches a fuel gauge having concentric tubes (abstract) including at least two capacitors 24 25.

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the gauge assembly taught by Smith with two capacitors as taught by Hart for the purpose of providing metering the flow of fuel into and out of a spaces between concentric tubes preventing fluttering or erratic action of the meter (Hart col. 1 lines 53-57).

Regarding claim 2 Smith teaches wherein the strips are disposed longitudinally, parallel to the axis of the tube, or else are disposed helically (fig. 6)(col. 4 lines 50-55).

Regarding claim 3 Smith teaches the strips occupy angular sectors of the same magnitude, and both sets of electrodes are identical (fig. 6).

Regarding claim 4 Smith teaches electrodes constituted solely by two strips facing each other (fig. 6).

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 5-9 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: The claims are deemed to be a distinct an unobvious over Smith (US 2998559) in view of Hart (US 3638491). The said claims comprise means for decoupling the two sets of electrodes, at least one of the tubes carries metal shielding or guard strips connected ground, carried by the facing faces of the tubes and separating the two sets electrodes, the outer tube carries a grounded shielded connection box containing, for each capacitor, a connector for connecting a low impedance line to an excitation electrode of the set of electrodes, and a connector for connecting a high impedance line to the other electrode of the set.
